

Example of Accessible HTML

List

This page should have proper examples of the following elements:

- Images
  - Image alternate text
  - Artifact image
- Document title
- Document language
  - Section Language
- Reading Order
- Forms
  - Tab Order
  - Form Labels
- Table
- Headings
- Lists

For more information on any of this go to W3C, or more specifically, <http://www.w3.org/TR/WCAG20-TECHS/pdf.html>.

Images

Image Alternate Text

Remember, with everything you do ask yourself:

Is This Good for the COUNTRY?

Image Artefacts

Not all images need alternate text. Only images that convey useful information (see above) need it. In HTML, an empty value for the "alt" attribute is necessary (ie: alt=""). In PDF, set the image as an artifact.

Languages

This document has a default language set to it. To see it, you need to view source, or use the Lang Attribute Detector Firefox extension.

Other Language Part

Tables

This table shows the variation of money spent on coffee and donuts from 2008 through 2009.

	Cost Per Year
Item	2008	2009	2010	2011	2012
Coffee	$500	$550	$575	$600	$650
Donuts	$300	$230	$320	Prohibited	$400

The following should act like a table, but it's really not a table.
